ABOUT US

The Association of Accessible Employers is a Community Interest Company that offers innovative and ground-breaking training and support for companies to adopt a truly accessible culture in their workplace and practices. We are based in Cornwall and sister company to Access Cornwall CIC.

Every penny of profit goes back into delivering our high-impact training and what we do transforms the way companies do business and the day-to-day working lives of individuals who have disabilities, learning differences, or other access needs.

Our training is created and delivered by highly experienced teams, and by inspiring staff and volunteers who live with the challenges of disability and learning differences.

Our ethos is that bridges are built by an integrated, collaborative approach.

We are accredited members of the Social Recruitment Advocacy Group and we have delivered training to organisations including Openreach, Shell, Amazon and the Citizens Advice Bureau.

Our training courses are accredited by the CPD .

TRAINING OPTIONS

- Training videos that can be accessed on demand that informs and educates staff about the latest understanding and language guidance around disability and practical ways to support customers and colleagues.
- Interactive and immersive webinar sessions tailored to the specific attendees to identify benefits, overcome concerns and barriers and feel confident in supporting those with access needs
Webinars last from 1 to 2 hours for up to 30 individuals
- We also provide face-to-face training through our high-impact immersive-training sessions. These take place over a morning or an afternoon and can be delivered to up to approximately 40 participants.
- We can offer up to four hours of ongoing consultancy support in the three months following training to help team members cope with any additional questions or circumstances they need help with.
